

September 2025 KinsKids Update-Kris Berg

Summer KinsKlub has come to an end. We took a week off to regroup and move much of the KinsKlub supplies to our new Kinship House. We are now back in full swing again - still meeting at the old house. Looking forward to meeting at the new house. The kids will be amazed at the space! With our numbers on Mon & Wed hanging out around eighteen it'll be awesome to give everyone a little more wiggle room. Wiggles are definitely present with these Kinskids. We are starting to decorate our windows with Homecoming in mind and celebrating being a Hatchet.

Our Tuesday Tutoring has started up again as well. Our first Tuesday was last week and only 2 kiddos took advantage of the option. As the school year progresses I expect the reality of having homework will also increase. This year we are expanding to have our tutoring night include our 4th and 5th grade Kinskids. We are hoping this will help build on skills and study habits earlier making school more successful than stressful.

Our Thursday Kinskids worked on making homemade applesauce last week. They each got to take home a container of their hard work. We will be working on some life skills with this group throughout the school year. They still had kid fun making Shrinky Dink key chains. They were amazed how the big picture they drew became pocket sized in minutes.

As always, watch our windows for a peek into our activities. Also, if anyone is free on a Monday or Wednesday I wouldn't say no to having some extra volunteers (especially when Patti is on vacation October 21-31!
